Why Choose OHSU School of Nursing?

Whatever role you seek in nursing, you will need more than your caring nature. You'll need knowledge, skills and experience. You'll also need to be able to tap into information systems that help you stay current with today's fast-paced health care environment. You'll find all of this at Oregon Health & Science University School of Nursing.

A leading health science academic and research university

The School of Nursing is not an island – we're part of Oregon Health & Science University. As part of our multifaceted public mission, OHSU strives for excellence in education, research, clinical practice, scholarship and community service. Through our dynamic interdisciplinary environment, OHSU stimulates the spirit of inquiry, initiative and cooperation among students, faculty and staff. Our research enterprise is catapulting the institution into one of America's top universities. The National Institutes of Health ranks OHSU among the top two percent of more than 3,000 institutions competing for research dollars. As a part of the OHSU community, you'll benefit from an environment where healing, teaching and discovery come together.

"I like making people feel good. It's great to give medicine to calm someone down but also to comfort and do the non-pharmacology things that convey that everything is going to be alright. Nursing is a very intimate profession."

—Joel Swift, RN, nurse anesthesia student

Ranked among America's top ten

U.S. News & World Report has consistently ranked the school's master's degree programs in America's top 10. Faculty members not only teach the latest advances in health care – they're also discovering them. The school consistently appears among the top NIH rankings for its research and training grants.

The first nurse anesthesia program in Oregon

Nurses were the first professional group to provide anesthesia services in the U.S. Established in the late 1800s, nurse anesthesia has since become recognized as the first clinical nursing specialty. Serving as pioneers in anesthesia, nurse anesthetists became involved in the full range of specialty surgical procedures, as well as in the refinement of anesthesia techniques and equipment and have continued to the present.

The OHSU School of Nursing proudly offers the first nurse anesthetist program in Oregon. The program opened in response to a growing need in the Western U.S. for high quality certified registered nurse anesthetists. Students are enrolled full-time throughout this 27-month program. Upon graduation, students will earn a master's degree and be prepared to successfully pass the National Certification Examination conducted by the Council on Certification of Nurse Anesthetists to be granted all the rights and responsibilities of being a nurse anesthetist.
